

MLCD

Medical Law Cases – For Doctors

A journal that:.....

- is of high practical utility to doctors
- actually guides doctors on precautions and guidelines that must be followed for protection from medico-legal litigation
- regularly gives maximum information and knowledge in a language and form that is easily understood by doctors but takes the least amount of their time
- is designed as a ready-reckoner for doctors

Contents

- Reports full text of important judgments collected from all the courts in India
- Analyzes judgments exclusively from a doctor's viewpoint
- Pragmatic precautions are suggested that are relevant and applicable in day-to-day practice
- Every judgment is summarized and written in simple, nonlegal language in the 'Abstract & Advice' section
- All the judgments are also indexed specialty-wise
- Cases on procedural aspects of law are totally avoided

Purpose & Object

- To continuously and regularly update doctors with medical laws
- To enable doctors to remain well-versed with medical laws applicable to the medical profession
- To facilitate doctors to make necessary and timely changes and take appropriate precautions in their practice
- This, in turn, is bound to avoid/minimize harm to doctors from medico-legal problems
- The knowledge and information thus provided ought to act as a tool for self-defence for doctors

Editor

Shri Mahendra Bajpai

Advocate Supreme Court of India

- The authority on the laws of medical negligence in India

Publishers

M/s Medknow Publications

- The largest publishing house of medical journals in India, currently publishing over 65 medical journals

Contact Us

Institute of Medicine & Law (Publications),

6A/201, Kalpak Estate, S. M. Road, Antop Hill, Mumbai 400 037.

Telephone : 99204 26263

Telefax: 2401 7910

Email: editor@mlcd.in

Website: www.mlcd.in